Share Your Knowledge of America's Religious Freedom

“Education is a better safeguard of liberty than a standing army.”
- Edward Everett

For over 10 years weekly bulletin articles from Catholics for Freedom of Religion (CFFOR) have been published in church bulletins. The focus of each article is some aspect of America's religious freedom. We are often told by parish bulletin editors that the entire office staff is eager to read each new article and shares it with family and friends. The CFFOR volunteers would estimate that someone reading even 25% of the articles knows more about religious freedom than the vast majority of Americans.

Be sure to keep the articles printed in your bulletin and share the information with children, parents, and your friends of all faiths. Remember that freedom of religion, like freedom of speech, is critical to all Americans. There is damaging propaganda against religious freedom repeated every day in the media, in politics, from organizations like the Freedom From Religion Foundation and uninformed Americans from clergy to school teachers.

The most damaging of the propaganda are these two misstatements:

1. Separation of church and state keeps God, faith and religion out of the public square of ideas and policies
2. God and prayer are not allowed in America's public schools

The bulletin articles have often corrected these false assertions and other misinformation. The articles also give examples of religious freedom denied and of religious freedom victories. The articles are available with the current article on the homepage at cffor.org and all past articles linked from the current one. All articles can be printed from the website.

If you are seeing the articles from another church bulletin you can request them to be emailed to your church or your individual email. Send us an email to: info@catholicsforfreedomofreligion.org or leave us a voicemail at 631-896-8331.
